

Our building celebrates a rich history as Dunedin's former famous Chief Post Office.

Fletcher Construction built the post office between 1935 and 1937, of reinforced Pataruru stone and Bluff granite. At a time when unemployment was high, the project granted many opportunities and men waited in long lines for a chance to be put to work. The post office opened in 1937, commemorated with a grand dinner. Thousands of parcels have been processed within these walls, and people would line up around the block by the hundreds in excitement to receive lavish gifts and hampers from overseas—especially around Christmas time!

Over time the post office gradually became less integral to society and began leasing space out, most notably with the IRD office.

In 2015, the building has been transformed into a 4.5 star luxury hotel, but the history is cherished and preserved. Our restaurant, Parcels, pays homage to the building's roots. The original 1937 vaults, used to store gold, jewels, and other riches, have now been renovated into custom designed private dining rooms in our restaurant where we welcome you for a grand dinner enveloped in heritage.

Thank you for dining with us.
