

Dunedin Leisure Lodge Hotel was built in 1978 on the original site of the McGavin Union Brewery.

The brewery which was at one time, New Zealand's largest, brewed its last beer in 1958 and was relocated to Speights Brewery in 1971.

The remains of the malt house became the smaller of the two function rooms at the hotel, the Oast House.

The larger function room and the on-site restaurant took on the name of the old brewery, the McGavins Room and McGavins Restaurant and Bar.
